

UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH POLICY 02-03-09

CATEGORY: ACADEMIC AFFAIRS
SECTION: Academic Integrity
SUBJECT: Participation in Political Campaigns
EFFECTIVE DATE: July 10, 1989

I. SCOPE

This policy establishes regulations on participation in political campaigns by faculty, staff, and students of the University, and supercedes any existing University policy on this subject.

II. POLICY

General Individual members of the University community have a right to participate or not, as they see fit, in the political process so long as there is no conflict with the discharge of their regular duties. The University of Pittsburgh, as an institution, however, does not endorse, support or take positions for or against any political candidate for office and no individual may speak or act in the name of the University in a political campaign.

A voluntary organization consisting of members of the University community (other than groups which have formal responsibilities for governance, administration, or instruction) may adopt resolutions endorsing or opposing a candidate or taking a position on an issue involved in a campaign for the purpose of assisting or opposing a candidate. Such resolutions, whether written or verbal, should clearly indicate that they speak only for their organization and do not state a University position.

University funds, facilities, or services may not be used for any participation or intervention in a political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office, except as provided below. Individual University employees may freely make private political contributions from their own personal funds. They must not, however, allow even an appearance that they are doing so in their official University capacities (for example, by using University stationery to forward a contribution).

These principles are not intended to inhibit or restrict the reporting of student or employee involvement in politics or the expression of editorial views, identified as such, in nonpartisan media such as student publications and broadcasts.

Student Activities Fees In order to insure the proper expenditure of student activities fees, the following rules shall apply:

- Student activities fees shall not be used to fund contributions or honorariums for any candidate running for public office.
- Student activities fees shall not be used in whole or in part to pay dues or membership fees to any organization engaged in the support of a candidate running for public office or other political activity.

Endorsements by Recognized Student Organizations Recognized student organizations have the autonomy to make endorsements of candidates provided their membership has been given an opportunity to vote on such an endorsement.

All endorsements by recognized student organizations shall make it clear that the endorsement represents the view of that organization and does not represent a position of the University of Pittsburgh.

Recognized student organizations may set up tables or booths to distribute candidate information only at the following approved locations around the University.
